

Discipleship at a time of environmental crisis

Creation Care is the theme behind the Cuddesdon Study Centre's programme of lectures and short courses.

Each year the Centre shares learning and ideas through these lectures, short courses, alongside research projects under an overarching theme. This year, it is the environment.

On Monday 14th October Revd Margot Hodson will kick off this year's series with a talk on 'Christian Discipleship at a Time of Environmental Crisis'.

Lectures are open to all and free of charge. Dinner afterwards can be booked for £10.

And looking ahead to 2020, Cuddesdon will be conducting a Pilgrimage to the Holy Land.

Taking place between the 3rd and 12th of January, the Principal of Cuddesdon Theological College, Bishop Humphrey Southern and Vice-Principal Professor Mark Chapman will lead this visit to the traditional sites of the Good News of Jesus Christ across Palestine and Israel.

The pilgrimage visits Christian communities in the region and gives pilgrims a chance to learn how that Good News is manifested today through the lives of these small but remarkable Christian peoples.
